“ To the family, I want to take this time to enter my sincere condolences to say: there's no sorrows on this earth that Heaven cannot heal. With that being said, my prayers will be with Anna's family members as she is laid to rest from all trials and tribulations. She is now absence from this old earth and now, she is presence with the Almighty Father, who will preside over her. Keep the faith and keep looking toward the hills.

“ I just want to share a most memorable salute to my great friend Anna, for all the times she and I shared with each other all the good times she and I had in school as well as she lived in New York. Many years came and passed but still, she and I found the time to communicate. Through all of her illness, we both found the time to laugh together and just speak about the old times which made her feel much better knowing that I never gave up on her. Anna, as she mentioned many times to me how she shared with her friends the books I had written and sent to her and for that, I will always cherish her for being just so considerate. To me, she was a special lady and I know she will be missed by her daughter Fentre, as she stood right by her mother until the end. I just want the family to know although I will not be in their presence as they lay their mother to rest, my heart felt sorrows will be there with you to comfort. May God Almighty, ease your burdens to give you peace and joy because sorrows only last for a night but, the joy that God, will give comes in the morning. This is the time to look to Jeus Christ, because my friend Anna, has gone home to rest without any weary. Be blessed.

“ Be comforted by your memories. I share in your time of sorrow. I am consoled to know with Christ she is not alone. Death is just a bend in the road that leads God's children home.
